It is extremely gratifying to be able to present this magnificent group of coins from the Ubilla-Echevez collection and to supplement this offering with additional coins to whet the interest of the collector.

The early Spanish and Spanish American coins catalogued herein are extremely important to the numismatic world. Many denominations and dates are appearing for the first time, despite the intense numismatic search that has been intelligently active for more than a century.

The consistent quality of the early gold coinage of Lima is well illustrated. A new denomination from the ephemeral Cuzco mint is now brought to light. We can now establish a complete set of the reverse types for the macuquina gold of Mexico. Heretofore unknown gold coins from Santa Fe de Bogotá help us to fill in some of the gaping holes in our knowledge of the issues of Nueva Granada. You should annotate your reference catalogs with this additional information.

As always, attractive groups of coins from any series will be welcome as consignments for future auctions.

This great rarity was unknown to Thomas Lismore, who so ably catalogued the entire Coinage of Cuba about ten years ago. It is probably unique. From the collection of Leopoldo Cancio, the Cuban Secretary of the Treasury 1914-1920, who established the monetary system of the Republic of Cuba, this is undoubtedly a pattern submitted by the Philadelphia mint to the Cuban Government.

It has remained in the family of Sr. Cancio until now, when it is for the first time being made available to the numismatic world.

After some modifications, this essential design was adopted and used for the gold coinage of 1915 and 1916. Considering that the 1916 twenty peso piece, of which there are probably ten specimens, is now worth in excess of $7,500.00, this coin should bring at least $5,000.00.

SPANISH AMERICA

CUZCO — PERU

This capital of the Inca Empire was the center of a celebrated mining district in the Spanish Colonial period. During the year 1698 a mint was established, apparently to strike small gold coins, but it functioned for just a few months. Only a two escudos piece has been known. It was erroneously listed by Wayte Raymond in 1937 as a four escudos, although the photograph shows it to be a two escudos. It was valued by him at $200.00 or four times his values for the Lima eight, four and two escudos cob gold coins of Philip V. The mint was reopened in 1824 for the last Spanish Viceroy after his final expulsion from Lima and afterwards became a republican mint.

LIMA — PERU

Without a doubt, the cob gold coinage of Lima was consistently produced to higher quality standards than that of any Spanish mint in the New World, although Mexico occasionally did strike full round coins of the highest quality in this era. While a single 8 Escudo piece is known from Lima for the year 1659, regular gold coinage began in 1696. All four denominations were produced in the same general style until the final cob issues of 1750, although each value is not known for every year. The coinage of the brief reign of Luis is known by only the largest denomination, the eight escudos.

SANTA FE DE BOGOTA — NUEVO REINO DE GRANADA

Evidently this Colombian mint was the first in the New World to regularly strike gold coins. Records show that two escudos pieces were struck in the 1630's in the reign of Philip IIII. In references, only an isolated undated piece or two from the reign of Charles II can be found. Until now the first recorded gold pieces of Philip V are two escudos coins dated 1719. The earliest dated four escudos known seems to be 1740 and the earliest date for the eight escudos is 1744. Burzio's first notation of the one escudo is that of 1736 in the Calicó reference.

The first obverse shield is a modification of the great shield of the Spanish Hapsburgs. Gradually, the Aragon shield — at the top between the shields of Castille and Leon and the shield of Naples and Sicily — shrinks in width until it disappears midway in the reign of Charles II. From that point, the shield of Nuevo Reino de Granada is unique in its design.

The variations in the placement of major features in the shield imply the use of illiterate native Indian labor for engraving. The Naples and Sicily shield, normally on the right, often appears on the left. The Castille and Leon shield, with castles in the first and fourth quarters and lions in the second and third, is often shown with these reversed, whether the shield is on the left or the right of the great shield.

MEXICO — NUEVA ESPAÑA

The oldest mint in the Americas was authorized to strike gold coins by a Royal Decree dated February 25, 1675. However, the first pieces were struck in 1679. The earliest dated coin known up to this time is a 1681 L, 4 escudos recorded by Lopez Chavez, followed by the eight escudos piece of 1691, sold by the cataloguer in November, 1961, to the leading Spanish professional numismatist.

Usually the "cob" gold coinage is quite irregular. Seldom are all of the details and legend completely shown. The few perfectly round pieces with all details must have been specimens struck to prove that they were able to produce them.

The obverse designs were constant for each reign and differed between Charles II and Philip V to show the change from the Hapsburg shield to the Bourbon shield.

The reverse designs deserve particular notice. The several changes cover definite periods. The design finally adopted at the end of 1714 seems to be retained for the rest of the cob coinage until the milled series began in 1732.

Estimates of values are necessarily indefinite. Four escudos and two escudos seem to be even rarer than the eight escudos or the one escudo pieces. The round spicimens are worth many times the usual cob issues. Only a few of the pieces listed below have been recorded up to this time. Within the past few months in Madrid, a Mexican cob eight escudo of 1730, assayer R, in typical macuquina condition, was offered at $2,500.00.
